MOTION FOR COMMITMENT.

EXAMINATION OF EVIDENCE.

tions of Mr. Swartwout.

GEN. WILKINSON introduced. Mr. Hay. Will you be so good as to state the written communications made to you by col. Burr, and the oral communica.

On or about the 8th of October of the last year (1806) I was sitting, in the evening, with col. Cushing at his quarters, and with him alone; when a gentleman entered. - Mr. Hay. At what place? A At Natchitoches | The gentleman enquired for colonel Cushing, who rose and receiv. ed him. He presented a letter to the cotopel, who broke the seal and read it.-The gentleman then aunounced himself to be the Mr. Swartwoot referred to in that letter, and colonel Cushing introduced him to me as the friend of general Dayton; handing me at the same time the letter, a copy of which I have, and the contents of which I well recollect. The general then produced a paper said to he the deposition of col. Cushing, which comprehended this

Bir. Botts said when you are about to shew a paper you will please submit it to our inspection.

General Wilkinson. I shall be governed by the judge, in that respect. Mr Botts. Theo we shall request the judge to govern you in that respect.

General Wilkinson. I shall endeavor to conduct myself with propriety, and in the most decorous manner to the court. Here general Wilkinson recapitulated the contents of the letter, which may be seen in the annexed deposition of colonel Cushing marked A.7

Mr. Swartwout took a seat and inform-Mississippi for New Orleans, in company with a Mr. Ogden, they had heard at Fort Adams of the impending operation against the Spaniards, which had induced him to ascend the Red River; in order to join me and volunteer his services on the campaign; and that Mr. Ogden had proceeded on his journey to New Orleans. Colonel Cushing retired for a few minutes, and pending that interval Mr. Swartwoot slip ped from his side pocket, a letter and pack et or envelope, which he said he was charged by colonel Burr to deliver to me. I hold the letter in my hand; and it is a formal letter of introduction of Mr. Swartwout by colonel Burr-

Mr. Martin observed that if any letters were produced they should be lodged with the clerk, where both parties might have an opportunity of inspecting them-Chief Justice. Not unless they are

See note B. ble.

I enquired of Mr. Swarrwout where colonel Burr was. He answered that he was at Philadelphia; or that he had left him there. Colonel Cushing returned, and the conversation took a general course.

After some time Mr. Swartwout withdrew; and I retired to my chamber, and in the packet or envelope I found a letter addressed to me in the cypher from col, Chief Justice. I did not understand you. How did you get this letter. A It was in the packet or envelope. This letter was principally in cypher the closing paragraph however was in the ordinary script. I resorted to the key and attempt. ed an interpretation of the letter. I did not complete it but discovered enough in the course of the evening to discover that there was some illicit project on foot. I arose early in the morning and called on col. Cushing my second in command, and adjutant and inspector of the army. --- I stated to him that Mr. Swartwout had borne me a letter from col. Burr, the nature of which I explained, and observed to him that Mr. Swartwout's declarations that he had come with a view to volunteer his services in the campaign against the Spaniards, were merely intended to cover his real design. I then communicated to col. Cushing the measures which I should pursue; enjoining him at the same time to obesive the strictest secrety --- Were it permissible to be read, here is the statement of facts aworn to by col. Cushing. The general held at that time in his band the paper marked A.

Mr. Wirt. This statement is signed b col. Cushing, with a certificate of his quali fication in legal form annexed.

M. Wickham an affidavit forming of part of the case before the court eannor be introduced.

Mr. Hay. Gen. Wilkinson states that on the morning after the letter was partly decyphered he stated to col Cushing its contents, and communicated to him the measures which he should pursue. These are facts detailed in that deposition; and if the gentlemen do not wish to see them, there is an end of the controversy.]

The general proceeded. One paragraph of the letter was in the ordinary script f Here the paragraph was read by geo. W in the following words. " He is a man of " inviolable honor and perfect discretion. formed to execute rather than projectcapable of relating facts with fidelity, and incapable of relating them otherwise -He is thoroughly informed of the plans and intentions of will disclose to you as far as you enquire and no further.—He has imbibed a reverence for your character, and may be embarrassed in your presence—put him at ease and he will satisfy you."]

I determined to avail myself of this reference to obtain from Mr. Swartwout that information which I could not discover by the letter; that is, the object to which col. Burr explicitly directed his views : and in the course of several days obtained from him substantially the following facts: That he had left col. Burr at Philadelphia occu pied day and night almost about an enterprize which he had in contemplation; that he lived in a retired part of the city, in a small house with several rooms, where he reserved persons with whom he had to transact business; and that he saw no two persons at the same time.

He observed to me that commodore Truxton was frequently with him, and zes lously engaged in his enterprize. He ob served that a man who superintended the public buildings at Washington was also zealously engaged. He did not recollect the name but on my mentioning the name of Latrobe, he said, that was the man, he said that he had been dispatched by col. B. from Philadelphia, and had traversed the ed us that being on his way down the states of Ohio and Kentucky. I so understood the gentleman at that time, but have since discovered that he descended the ri.

> Mr. Botts. By whom did you under. stand that he descended the river? A By a man who informed me he had rowed him down from Pittsburg.

Another reason why I may have been mistaken was this. He informed me that he had passed to Frankfort in quest of gen. Adair, for whom he had dispatches from tol Burr; and not hearing of him there, had returned back to Lexington in pursuit of him; where he was informed by maj. Waggoner, that gen. Adair, being in ill health had gone to some medical spring, and that if he would wait a few days, he might see him; that he did so, and thus had an interview with him without incurring any suspicion, at which time he delivered his dispatches. He said that general Adair was zealously engaged in his enterprize; and observed, " tell him that I will write to him, but that I expect to meet him at the place, that he may depend I will meet him at the spot," or words to that ef-

Mr. Swartwout proceeded to inform me that he came to Louisville, and felt himself at a loss how he should reach me with the most certainty, a rumor having prevailed there that I had descended the river, Finally on the advice of Mr. Floyd, he determined to go across the country under the expectation of finding me a: St. Louis. Accompanied by Mr. Ogden he prosecuted his journey to Kaskaskias. Finding that I had descended the river, he determined to alter his route; he purchased a skiff, employed hands and followed me down to Fort Adams. At this point I asked him whether this sudden change of route might not expose him to suspicions. He said that to guard ag-net this, he had wound. ed his horse with his penkale; and informed the people that his intentions were to have visited St. Louis, but having experienced this accident he should pursue his original destination; which was to descend the river to New Orleans. On arriving at Fort Adams and discovering that I had proceeded to Natchitoches, he determined to follow me, and his friend Mr. Ogden pursuing his route, went on with dispatches from col. Burr to his friends in N. Orleans.

Mr. Swartwout informed me that colo. nel Burr, supported by a numerous and powerful association, extending from New York to New Orleans, was about to levy an armed force of seven thousand men, with a view to carry an expedition against. On the morning of the 5th of Navember, the Mexican provinces; that five hundred a small Preach man whom I had dever see men would descend the Allegany river before, nor have I ever seen him since with colonel Swartwout and a major or co- presented me a packet and took his leave. lonel Tyler: that the boats were already This I found to be a letter from Dr. Bon. built. It may be pro- force at New Orleans as soon as possiper, in this stage of my testimony, to say ble. that the envelope which contained the cy: phered letter from colonel Burr, covered also two other letters. To save misappre. hension, it may also be proper to say, that when I speak of an envelope, it is in contradiction to a sealed packet. It occurs to my recollection, that a letter addressed to John Peters, esq. of Nashville, was enclos ed in the envelope, as well as another letter from general Dayton in cypher. (See gen. Dayton's letter, note C.)

Mr. Baker. Do you say that the letter from general Dayton was inclosed in another cyphered letter? A I say expressly the reverse. It came with it. Mr. Wickham objected to reading the letter from general Dayton. He said that geceral Dayton being absent, he had no oppertunity of consulting him, or of ascertain ing his wishes respecting it. If there be New Orleans, and is advised by me to call at no other evidence that the letter was from general Dayton, except that a letter was received by general Wilkinson, purporting to be a letter of general Dayton's, it was not evidence.

Mr. Hay. The fact stated by general Wilkinson is, that he received this letter. It way have had considerable in Agence with him as to the course which he pursued.-He received the letter together with ano ther cyphered letter from colonel Burr; and the fact being that he received this letter, purporting to be a letter from general Dayton, it surely may be read.

Mr. Wickham. If the letter by itself would not be evidence, its being connected with others would not make it so.

Mr. Hay. On that distinction, I mean to offer it. If gen. Dayton were before letter, and I presented him to gen. Wilthe court, he might require some other evi- kinson as the friend of gen. Deposition of Col. Cushing.

On or about the eighth of October, eightteen hundred and six, I was sitting at the dining table in my quarters at Natchitoches, with general Wilkinson, when a gentleman entered the room and enquired for col. Cushing, I rose to receive him, and he presented to me the letter from general Dayton, of which the following is an exact copy, viz,

"Elizabeth-town, N. J. July 27, 1806. Dear Sir,

" This will be presented to you by my nephew a son of the late general Matthias Ogden, who commanded one of the Jersey regiments in the revolutionary war, and whom you probably recollect. He is on his way to your Post, if it should be at fort Adams or elsewhere upon the Mississippi, as I am told it is. His merits and the esteem in which he is held by me, makes me anxious to procure for him a welcome reception, even for the short stay of a few hours, that he will be able to make with you.

"Any instance of friendly attention or assistance shewn to him, and his very worthy companion Mr. Swartwout, will be gratefully acknowledged and regarded a favor conferred on" Dear sir,

That this person ther is France. Explanations hereaf. whose name Myres refuses to reveal, is in most unquestionable vouchers of his misis proper to add that the persons thus applied to at St. Louis altogether refused to concur in any plan of the kind, saying that it should be only superior force that should dispense with their oath of fidelity to the United States.

This may all appear to a person as well acquainted as you are with the western country, as a second Spanish conspiracy, and as such be ridiculed, and such is my Myers so firmly believed it that having set forth on his journey by land to the U.S. He was induced by his fears hastily to re. turn to arrange his business at allevents & prepare for an explosion --- He most solemaly protests the truth of the communication, and declares there are only four persons in St. Louis who are privy to the disclosure made by the secret agent-It is not improbable that this may be a "Ruse de guerre" a stratagem set on foot by the patrons of the Western World, to foster and keep alive the dissention, which excited by the presented exposition of ancient conspiracies may be faened into a flame by spreading an alarm of an immediately and pressing treasonable combination This I am apt to believe is the case, and in order more fully to succeed they may study and affect mystery, as better calcu lated to excite suspicion, and that they may have the honor of a new discovery. However, be the matter as it may, I communi. cate it to you, as I received it, and have only to regret, that you had it not in person from Myer's information, of which, what. ever your judgment might pronounce, the solemony of his assertion and his certainty of the plan (altho' he was not at liberty to divulge the means) must have staggered the mind capable of believing it."

GEORGE TRUIT, Esq. Governor. NICHOLAS VANDYKE, Esq. Representative in Congress.

The publication of the following decree of the French government will impress on the merchants of the U. S. the necessiy of taking the precautions therein required.

Decree of the French Republic, 13th Mes. sidor 10th year.

Art. 1st All foreigners are prohibited from bringing within the territories of the Republic, any black, mulatto, or other person of color of either sex.

Art 3J. All blacks or mulattoes who shall come within the Continental territories of the republic, after the publication of the present decree, without bringing with them the permission pointed out in the preceding article, shall be arrested and detain. ed until they are sent out of the country.

A Tony caucht! During the re. volutionary war, general Clinton, the British commander, issued a proclamation enceuraging a trading intercourse with the farmers, and offering such as availed them. selves of it, protection. Under this proclamation, a Mr. Ball, of Elizabethtown, New Jersey, came to New York with produce, and having finished his business, re. turned from the enemy's lines to his native place, Elizabethtowr. Returning he was seized at Bergen Point by Cornelius Hatfield, and a precious group of Tories. Hatheld, without trial and without delay, conducted Mr. Ball to a tree, where he hung him! At the peace, Hatfield fled to Nova Scotia, where he has remained until within a few weeks.

It appears that some of the relations of Harfield have lately died and left property. and that Hatfield, about two weeks ago returned from Nova Scotia to Newark to claim it. Apprehensive, however, for his safety, recollecting no doubt the crime of which he had been guilty. Hatfield, on his arrival at Newark, kept himself snug; but finding that he could not settle his affairs without going at large, he appeared in pub.

Mr. Ball, who applied to the proper au. sion, in French and English. That he dead thority, and had him arrested. Hatfield is clared if Money was necessary that it now in jail at Newark, charged with mura might be commanded to any extent-It dering Mr. Ball, and his trial will shertly take place.

The case is not a difficult one. Andre, who was confessedly a spy, went through the regular forms of trial and was executed by the sentence of a court marrial. On the worst supposition Mr. Ball could not have been viewed in a light more odious than that of major Andre. But Ball had no trial; a few moments only elepsed between his being apprehended and executimpression of the wonderful plan. But ed. Hatfield was a Tory. He hanged Mr. Ball without hesitation, and robbed him when he was hung!

THE AUTHOR'S PREFACE. NOTWITHSTANDING the vast number of initial tory books for children in the Nurfery, which have been written within these few years by persons of diftinguiffed abilities and fanctioned with their names, it must still be allowed, that there has not appeared one introduction to Reading, for the general of of schools that rifes above the level of the vulgar, though popular ocmpilations of Dyche, Dilworth and Fenning. The superflructure has been attended to with fedulous care arit eminance have contributed. rear the fabric of learning, while the foundation has almost invariably been suffered to be laid, by the most take lefe and ignorant workmen. The confequence has frequently been, as might be especied from fuch a procedure: the take has been v tiated at the very commencement; and it has often proved more difficult to remove error, than it would have coll pains to plant originally the principles of truth. For the neglect we have alluded to, it would be inpossible to produce any consistent reason. Perhaps the pride of acknowledged literature could not storp to in occupation reputed so mean, as that of compiling a Spelling Book. Yet to lay the first stone of a noble edifice, has ever been a task delegated to the most honorable hands; and to fow the first secos of ufeful learning in the nascent mind, is an employment that caunct be dis. graceful to the most illustrious talents. Behop Lowth wrote an excellent English grammar, and feveral men of rank in literature have benefitted the public by similar productions; yet it is in vain that grammars are written if no one has learned to read; it is in vain that the sublin est discoveries are made in any art or science, if the

them, for want of previous instruction in the first principles with which they are connected.

The Editor of the following sheets is fully convinced of the folidity of his inferences and the justice of his remarks, in whatever light his present undertaking ray be regarded. Humble or degrading as it may appear to those who, perhaps, have no higher pretensions than himfelf, he cannot think that labor diffionorable, which is to manifestly beneficial to the rising generation; pot has he any reason to fear, but that the candid and judicious will appreciate his motives and his production as they deferve, Our fentiments and our conduct are more influenced by early impressions than many seem willing to allow. The stream will always flow tinctured with the nature of its fource. A just maxim, a humane prin. ciple, a germ of knowledge early imbibed, will be per nament to the last. The first books we read can no. ver be forgotten, nor the principles they inculcate, era. dicated. Hence, in the profession of this work, care has been taken to make every lesson or assay, as far as the nature and intention of the plan would allow, send to comenfeful purpose of intermation or instruction. Even in the more easy progressive lessons, where sense was him a tropic systable, it is hoped formething will be some to please and to improve, her will this be thought diffe cult. Fortread in the sceps of a Barbault, a Jaufret, an Edgeworth, a Trimmer, a Berquin, and to accommodate their labors to the benevolent design in hand, only acquired a little taste and judgment, which any perion one convertant with education and books ought to solve

In Bort, the Editor feels inclined to believe, that they manual for early youth will be found much better adapted for the purpose than any that has preceded it; and in consequence he anticipates the kind patronage of Feach ets in general. It probably will tend to facilitate their labour, by surnishing subjects more agreeable to the patronage of the control of the patronage of the control of th oil, than the dry inanity of most books of the kind; and t cannot fail to redound to their credit also, by givits youth an opportunity of gaining as much general know. ledge as could be crowded within the limits prefailed Indeed it was a remark of the publisher, (to whom British youth are under fingular obligations for furnish. ing them with many valuable oportunities of improve ment) when he carneftly preffed this work on the Edi tutes the whole fibrary of a poor child, enless when chartey pursa bible into his hands, & it consequently out it contains a price of the price of t contain as great a vaciety of useful matter as the price wil permit."
